WILL BE BURNED.

A KENTUCKY FIEND CAUGHT IN MISSOURI.

THE MOB WILL BURN HIM.

He Outraged And Murdered Two Young Girls—Evidence Against Him Conclusive.

PADUCAH, Ky., July 7., 2:30 p. m. —The negro murderer and rapist is now in the hands of the mob and it has just been determined to burn him at the stake at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The city is crowded with desperate and determined men.

The spot selected for the execution is surrounded by a close mass of humanity and every preparation for dealing out merited punishment is being made.

Nothing can save the prisoner from his fate—a fate that will strike terror to the hearts of other criminals.

The Murderer Captured.

CAIRO, Ill., July 7.—The fiend who murdered and outraged the two Ray girls near Bardwell, Ky., was captured near Sikeston, Mo., to which place he had been tracked by determined pursuers. He gives his name as C. E. Miller and claims to reside at Springfield, Illinois. He is a negro and was hiding in a freight car when found. He had in his possession a bloody razor and five ladies' rings, one of which was identified as having been worn by one of the Ray girls when she left home.

A special train left Sikeston carrying the prisoner back to Kentucky at 1:10 a. m. this morning, and that summary justice will be meted out as soon as the enraged citizens can seize upon the fowl fiend, is as certain as fate.

The crime, which has heretofore been detailed in the press, was one of the most infamous ever committed by man. Two innocent young girls left their peaceful country home to pick berries in the woods near by. A few hours later their murdered, mutilated, outraged bodies were found.

News of the crime spread rapidly and all business was suspended and every man felt it his duty to hunt down the cruel, bloody fiend who had committed the deed.

Now that he has been found he will be punished in a way that will strike terror to the hearts of those of his class. Officers may attempt to hide him from the mob's violence, but he will certainly be lynched.

The whole country is aroused and the demand for vengeance is heard on every hand.

Kaw Lands Will Be Opened.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 7.—The Cherokee commission has failed to make a treaty with the Ponca Indians for their reservation in the Cherokee Strip. The Kaw tribe has, however, agreed to treat, and their reservation will soon be thrown open to settlement. It contains over 100,000 acres, all lying in the Arkansas valley bordering on the Kansas line, and is very rich land. The tribe is very small, and so most of the land will go to the white settlers.

Alarmed Over Sick Cattle.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 7.—The soldiers are still driving the cattle off the Cherokee Strip over into the settled counties of Oklahoma, north of here, and as hundreds of the cattle are sick and dying with the Spanish fever, the farmers and stock raisers are greatly alarmed for the safety of domestic stock.

An armed guard is patrolling the line to prevent any more cattle being driven across. The governor was appealed to for help, but declared he could do nothing, and has called upon the secretary of agriculture to take action in the matter.

IN TRUE NOVEL STYLE.

A Bride Carried Off at Midnight and Wedded in a Carriage.

FAYETTE, Mo., July 7.—A romantic wedding occurred here at an early hour yesterday morning, the principals being John R. Harston, assessor of Howard county, and Miss Ida Long, the pretty daughter of A. H. Long, living near New Franklin. The parents of both were opposed to the match and the young couple planned an elopement at midnight. Mr. Harston, accompanied by two gentlemen friends, drove to the home of Miss Long, who was in readiness, and securing her without awakening the household, returned to Fayette, where they were married while seated in the carriage by Rev. John Anderson, in front of his residence. The happy couple then boarded the 4 o'clock passenger for the World's fair. The bride left her mother a note on the bureau which explained everything.

COUNTY COURT.

Bonds to the Amount of $47,000 Canceled To-Day.

County court met this morning in adjourned session, Judge J. N. Dalby presiding.

Pettis county funding bonds to the amount of $47,000 were canceled, and also $16,450 interest coupons and $600 court house interest coupons.

A number of tax matters were considered and several warrants ordered issued.

This afternoon the court will pass upon the applications for dramshop licenses.

Several bridges that have been damaged by the late floods will also receive attention at the hands of the court, after which a couple of road cases will be considered.

A Dangerous Fall.

T. H. Mayfield, a carpenter residing at Seventh and Osage, was painfully injured by falling through the floor of the base ball grand stand at the park last evening during the wrestling match. He was standing upon a board when it gave way and Mr. Mayfield fell through to the ground below, a distance of about ten feet. As he went down, his chin struck the floor at edge of the opening. A gash was cut under his chin and another immediately over his left jugular vein. He was considerably battered by the fall. Dr. J. A. Grimes dressed the wounds.

The Bridge is Safe.

Judge Dalby says the published statement in a local paper, that the bridge over Muddy, between here and Dresden, was in such a condition that it would have to be replaced, is not true. The recent high water washed out beneath the aprons of the bridge, but it will require only a small expenditure to put everything in good shape again.

Half a Wheat Crop.

T. H. Faris, living near Hughesville, was in the city to-day shaking hands with friends. Mr. Faris is one of the most successful farmers and stock raisers in the state. He is now harvesting 200 acres of wheat, which he says will make but half a crop, owing to the wet weather and chinch bugs. Corn is looking remarkably well.

Narrowly Escaped Drowning.

This morning a little two-year-old child of Mrs. Thompson, a widow, living at 217 East Fourth, while walking around the yard, fell into a tub of water. It narrowly escaped drowning, and was rescued by its mother who was badly frightened.

Raised a Racket.

Lily Belle Taylor was in Justice Blair's court this afternoon on the charge of disturbing the peace of Millie Smith. Both are colored. Millie is said to have threatened to break Lily Belle's face for keeping company with her young man.

It is rumored that Julia Marlow had married her leading man, Robert Tabor, when they sailed for Europe June 22 last.

THE SEARCH FOR GOLD.

Postmaster Demuth Receives a Couple of Letters on the Subject.

The out-of-the-ordinary letters received by Capt. H. C. Demuth in the course of a year would make a good sized volume if put in type. All manner of people write to him on all manner of subjects, and if he complied with all the requests made upon him by persons whom he never saw nor heard he would have very little time for the transaction of government business.

During the past fortnight the Sedalia correspondents of the metropolitan prints have sent out several dispatches in regard to the supposed buried treasure near Knob Noster, and that these dispatches have borne fruit is shown by the following verbatim copy of a postal card received by Capt. Demuth, yesterday, viz:

Muncie, Ind July 3

Here is a second letter that was received by Capt. Demuth yesterday, viz:

I learn from the newspapers that some parties are searching for a large gold treasure. If it is the government having the money looked for, and if they are not lucky enough to find it, myself and partner, we follow that business.

At last accounts Capt. Demuth had not sent for either of the prospectors, but there is no telling what conclusion he may reach in the next few hours.

A NOTORIOUS MURDERESS.

Amanda Umbles, Sentenced for Fifty Years, Passes Through the City.

Marshal H. P. Stewart and his efficient deputy, John McGowan, passed through the city this morning en route to Jefferson City with a number of prisoners.

One of them has attracted much attention during the past few months. She is Amanda Umbles, the notorious negroess who was sentenced to be hanged and whose punishment was commuted by Governor Stone to fifty years in the penitentiary. The Umbles woman attacked a rival in an alley in Kansas City and literally butchered her with a razor. The woman fell lifeless on the spot. She is the sister of Horace Umbles, now in the county jail for highway robbery and jail breaking. He is one of the most desper-

How the Pettis County Investment Co. Paid Its $100,000.

The DEMOCRAT yesterday chronicled the fact that the Pettis County Investment Co. had deposited $100,000 with State Treasurer Stephens, and the following dispatch from Jefferson City to today's Globe-Democrat gives additional particulars:

July 23 is the date on which the law passed by the last general assembly requiring bond investment companies to deposit with the state treasurer $100,000 goes into effect.

Until to-day none of the companies of this kind, of which there are nine in this state, had complied ate criminals ever turned out in this city. Amanda Umbles was a former resident of this city and her relatives still reside here. She is a vicious looking negroess, but no more so than a dozen others in Sedalia at the present moment. Quite a number of negroes met her at the depot.

Frank Foster, white, and of a very youthful appearance, goes up 3 years for highway robbery.

Five small colored boys go to the reform school at Boonville.

Out of Jail.

Wm. Carter, the colored individual who represented the St. Louis Chronicle and failed to make the proper returns, was discharged from jail to-day, after having served seven days.

The first company to do so was the Pettis County Investment company, of Sedalia. Representatives of that corporation arrived here this afternoon and soon put themselves in shape to proceed under the new law by depositing with Treasurer Stephens $100,000 debenture bonds of the Equitable Loan and Investment company, which are in turn secured by real estate notes, deposited with a trustee, selected by the treasurer, so that in reality the deposit is secured by a sum total of $212,500. The Pettis county company preferred to put up debentures, thus secured, to putting up other kinds of bonds, as they draw interest at the rate of 7 per cent. while the bonds would only draw 5 and 6.

Official Paper of the City of Sedalia.

THE free and unlimited coinage of silver at a fair ratio will be a winning issue with which to go to the people in 1894 and again in 1896.

A WRITER in the Kansas City Star claims that the Kentucky World's fair building, which only cost $26,000, is twenty times as convenient, handsome and inviting as the Missouri building, which cost $40,000.

THE Republic publishes the vote on the Sherman bill in 1890. The record shows that not a single democrat in either house voted for the measure. It was framed and passed by republicans and that party is responsible for its bad effects.

THE prospective postoffice primary at Fayette has already caused more bad blood than half a dozen campaigns, and good democrats are fighting each other when they should be counseling together for the strengthening of the party, and the good of the country.

THERE is a world of wisdom in the following remark of an exchange: "The wealth of the country is not impaired and when its financial system is established upon a common-sense basis idle capital will be eager for investment and the best kind of good times will be the more appreciated because of the unpleasant pinch which they follow."

THE Sedalia Athletic club is to be congratulated upon the large attendance at the wrestling match last night and the splendid order maintained. It is a great mistake to suppose that it is the "toughs" and "hoodlums" who attend such meetings. On the contrary, the crowd contained many of the best known business men in the city and perfect decorum, sobriety and gentlemanly conduct was the rule. The club deserves the encouragement of the public.

MR. WINDMULLER, a prominent New Yorker, expressed the Wall street idea exactly when he said: "The issuance of clearing-house certificates has demonstrated that a flexible currency controlled by bankers is desirable." The old idea was that the United States government—the representatives of the whole people—should have the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof. The question now is whether or not this power shall be surrendered to the New York bankers. Mr. Windmuller is an earnest advocate of the Wall street idea, whatever may be said of his discretion.

It is the duty of the city, and under the new law it has the power, to have all the defective sidewalks repaired and new ones built where needed. Street Commissioner Hyatt is charged with the duty of enforcing this law and has begun the long needed work. He did not make the law; it is his duty to execute it and he will do it without fear or favor. There has been abundant time and opportunity for the property owners to make the needed repairs themselves had they chosen to do so, and having neglected it they have no ground for complaint when Mr. Hyatt comes along, as come he surely will, and does this work required of him by law.

A BEAUTIFUL little story is going the rounds of the press to the infinite credit of the enterprising and charitable people of Gallatin, this state. The business men of the town raised five hundred dollars for a Fourth of July blow-out, but a few days before the Fourth they learned of a poor widow who had a five hundred dollar mortgage on her home, which she was unable to pay. After carefully considering the matter the citizens concluded to pay off the mortgage with the Fourth of July money and postpone the celebration until another year. It is safe to say that, in spite of the dearth of fireworks and the absence of red lemonade, that was the happiest Fourth of July Gallatin ever knew.

It is admitted by even the gold-bugs themselves that there is a scarcity of money in the country, and even the most enthusiastic advocates of the single standard concede that with silver out of the way there must be such changes in our national banking laws as will induce these banks to extend their circulation. It is merely a question as to whether we shall coin silver or admit state, municipal and corporate bonds as a basis and security for national bank circulation, or else adopt the farmers' alliance scheme of lending money on land and non-perishable products. Conservative men had as well look the matter squarely in the face. There is not gold enough to do the business of the country.

If the reports from the mining regions of the Upper Peninsula be correct, and there is no reason to think them otherwise, the outlook for the men who delve in the mines, or did until recently, says the Detroit Free-Press, must be about as gloomy as that of the man who walks a plank. Years ago the operation of the tariff began to let the life-blood out of the iron trade, the market for ore is dead, and the trade seems on the verge of dissolution. Mine after mine has been closed, furnace after furnace has drawn its fires, 6,000 men are already out and there is absolutely nothing in that country for them to do. Every furnace north of the Straits is dead, miners are coming out of the ground every day to be paid off and discharged. The situation is critical.

If the bankers would do as much as the newspapers towards restoring confidence in this country all danger of financial trouble would be averted. But it takes all the efforts the press can put forth to repair the damage wrought by the bankers and money lenders.—Columbia Herald.

The above is unjust as applied to western bankers. It is only a few weeks since the banks of the west were freely offering their gold to the treasury to make up for the inroads upon the reserve made by the New York gold exporters through the manipulation of the Sherman law. The average bank whose customers are the business men of the community, is dependent upon the prosperity of the community for its own success. The banker makes his money when times are good just as the merchant or manufacturer does, and he has a hard road to travel when money is scarce. He deals in money and must find it for his customers, for he knows that when they flourish he prospers, and when adversity overtakes them he suffers.

The protectionists made a fatal mistake when, in the plenitude of their power, they passed the McKinley bill, and the revulsion of popular opinion drove from power and almost into oblivion the party which passed the measure. The advocates of the gold standard will make an equally fatal blunder if they take advantage of the election of a gold standard president on a bimetallic platform to put their favorite scheme into force in this country. The masses of the people will revolt at such treachery, and in all probability the conservative opponents of the gold standard will be unable to curb the indignation of those who must suffer from such a policy, and state banks and wild inflation may follow the temporary victory of the gold men. Humanity is pretty much the same all over the country when the circumstances are similar, and Kansas furnishes an example of what men will do when their burdens have become greater than they can bear. The best advice to the gold advocate is: Beware!

AN INDEPENDENT VIEW.
The bold and frank utterances of Hon. Champ Clark in his recent speech at the Tammany banquet in New York, have attracted attention throughout the union.

That there is grave dissatisfaction at the insolence with which the northeast seeks to reverse the position of the democracy on financial questions is patent to all, and this distrust and dissatisfaction is increased by the insincerity displayed in making war upon silver in face of the implied promise which brought the west and southwest to Cleveland's support.

The following from the St. Louis Chronicle, an independent paper, expresses the views and sentiments of thousands of democrats in the west and south:

"The keynote of 1896 was sounded some time before Hon. Champ Clark sounded it at the Tammany banquet, but all he said was well said nevertheless. It will be a long time before New York dictates the election of another president. The insolence with which the northeast undertakes to dominate the rest of the country has become absolutely unbearable.

Here the New York bankers and money kings are squeezing the merchants and business men of the Mississippi valley to the verge of bankruptcy, not because it is necessary, but because they want the Sherman act repealed and are determined to force western and southern business men to the support of their demands. And this they are doing regardless of the fact that they themselves dictated the Sherman act and are wholly responsible for its most pernicious provisions.

There must and there shall be an end of this. It is intolerable. And the end is in sight. The young men of this generation will be gray-headed before there is another northeastern president. The outrageous sectionalism of the northeastern administration of the treasury department impoverishes the west and south, demoralizes our business and takes the bread from the mouths of our earners. It will not be long now before the rallying cry will be heard for the friends of right and justice in the Mississippi valley."

A BURGLAR ESCAPES.

A Sensation at the Residence of Councilman W. F. Hansberger Last Night.

There was quite an alarm last evening at the residence of W. F. Hansberger on West Broadway, occasioned by the discovery that a burglar was in the house. There was no one at home at the time with the exception of the two daughters, Misses Mattie and Mollie. The young ladies started to retire and when partly up the stairway heard a noise above them which came from a rear room. They hastened down, and after waiting a short time, heard no further noise and decided that it was a false alarm. The noise was repeated when they again started to ascend and they now hastened out of the house. Mr. Hansberger was returning home at the time and when told of the affair lost no time in securing his pistol. An attempt to open the door of the room showed that some one was holding it from the inside. He summoned Dr. Ferguson to assist in the capture and both proceeded to surround the house. During Mr. Hansberger's absence, however, the supposed burglar made his escape by going down into the cellar and crawling through a window. Nothing was missed from the house.

The removal of the "Katy" offices has cut down the receipts of the office only a few hundred dollars a year, it is true, but just enough to take a $100 slice off of Capt. Demuth's salary.

MADE HIS ESCAPE.

BENTON COUNTY'S NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL.

A BOY BITTEN BY A SNAKE.

Two Narrow Escapes From Drowning—History of Ex-Convict Groshong.

Hon. P. D. Hastain returned last evening from a trip to Benton county. He addressed a large audience at Lincoln on the Fourth and then went to Warsaw, where he picked up several news items, for which the DEMOCRAT is indebted to him.

Mr. Hastain, it will be remembered, is counsel for Geo. Groshong, a notorious Benton county character whose many crimes were chronicled in the DEMOCRAT on May 7. Groshong was confined in the jail at Warsaw, pending a trial on six indictments that had been returned against him, and the cases were to have been tried at the next term of the Pettis county criminal court, they having been brought here on a change of venue.

MAKES HIS ESCAPE.
The chances are that Groshong will not be arraigned however. On the evening of July 3d he made his escape from jail, and has not yet been recaptured. As a holiday was near at hand, he was given the freedom of the corridors instead of being locked in his cell, and to this fact is to be attributed his escape. By general consent Groshong is conceded to be the most noted criminal that ever resided on the banks of the Osage river. He is only 30 years old, and yet before he was 20 he shot a man named Dawson over the affections of a woman, but escaped prosecution.

A HORSE THIEF.
A year later he was arrested for the theft of two horses in Benton county, which he ran off to Ray county and disposed of. Learning that he had been tracked and was certain to be arrested, tried and convicted, he killed one of the animals, hoping thus to remove the evidence against him. The second animal was identified, and Groshong was arrested, convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. He served his time, and as he was about to step from the prison door, a free man as he supposed, he was taken into custody by the sheriff of Benton county to answer to a second charge of horse stealing, the theft of the animal he had killed in the hope of removing the evidence of his crime. By the death of witnesses and the payment of a sum of money, the second case was finally dismissed.

AN ELOPEMENT.
A few months later Groshong eloped with Ora Dennis, a pretty girl of 17 years, and in consequence his father-in-law took a couple of shots at him, which Groshong returned with interest.

Groshong soon left his wife and was next arrested for an alleged rape upon Laura Bowers, but was acquitted.

Last December Groshong was indicted for illegal voting, and when arraigned for a preliminary hearing he took an oath that he would get even with the persons who had him indicted.

PLAYING FOR EVEN.
Since then Chas. H. Drake, who was foreman of the jury, has had all of his apple trees girdled. The crime is laid at the door of Groshong, and to-day he stands indicted for it.

E. N. Porch, who testified against Groshong before the grand jury, had the wheels of his cart cut to pieces, and Groshong stands indicted for this crime, also.

Chas. Dillon, a member of the jury against whom Groshong swore vengeance, has had his barn burned, and this, too, is laid at Groshong's door.

In addition, he stands indicted for the theft of a saddle and for having demolished the windows of his father-in-law's house—six indictments in all.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.
There is much excitement in Warsaw over his escape, and many persons who have incurred his enmity have hidden out. His wife has obtained a divorce, and he has threatened her life, as well as that of her lawyer, a young man named Simmons, and many believe that he will make his threat good.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.
While at Lincoln, on the Fourth, Mr. Hastain learned that Herman, the 8-year-old son of Wm. Garnett, a farmer who resides five miles west of the village, was bitten by a rattlesnake on the evening of the 3d.

The boy was assisting his father in the harvest field, when the snake bit him on the foot. The lad did not realize that he had been bitten, however, but surmised that he had pricked his foot with a thorn. Later, he complained of a headache, and soon his foot and leg began to swell, when an examination revealed that he had been bitten by a rattlesnake.

Instead of taking the boy to a doctor, a messenger was dispatched five miles distant after the latter gentleman, and when Mr. Hastain last heard from the boy it was thought he could not recover.

Lost His Samples.

A drummer named Wilson, traveling for the Standard Oil company, came near losing his life in Turkey creek, seven miles from Warsaw, on the Fourth. He was driving through the country and attempted to ford the stream, which was greatly out of its banks, when his vehicle was caught by the current and carried down stream. Wilson lost all his samples and some of his wearing apparel that he carried in a valise, but was exceedingly thankful to escape with his life.

Another Close Call.

Nels Butler, the Warsaw liveryman, had a narrow escape from drowning on the Fourth. He was caught in the Osage river while using Wilber S. Jackson's horse and buggy, and driver, horse and vehicle were carried down the stream more than a quarter of a mile before they were rescued with a skiff.

Dr. L. Bremer, of St. Louis, Mo., in an article published in the April number of the Bacteriological World, at Battle Creek, Mich., says:

"Whoever has seen with what utter disregard to the simplest hygienic precautions that natural ice is gathered, must be astonished, if he be familiar with the mental teachings of bacteriology, that epidemic diseases are not more frequent. I am sure that to the tumbler and the ice box are traceable many a case of typhoid and diphtheria. The ice box especially offers the greatest opportunities for food contamination."

A KANSAN LAID LOW.

McFADDEN WAS TOO MUCH FOR ASBELL.

HE WON IN TWO ROUNDS.

The Chetopa Man Had Plenty of Muscular Power, But Was Short on Science.

A splendid programme of athletic sports was provided at Association park last night, under the auspices of the Sedalia Athletic club, on the occasion of the wrestling match between Marion Asbell, of Chetopa, Kansas, and Prof. B. A. McFadden, of Marmaduke Military academy, Sweet Springs.

The match was catch-as-catch-can, two falls in three, and was for a $200 purse, the interstate championship, and gate receipts divided at a ratio of three to one in favor of the winner.

At 8:30 o'clock fully 500 people had assembled in front of the base ball grand stand, where half a dozen torches judiciously distributed furnished an abundance of light. A mat about twelve feet square was spread directly in front of the stand, and on this mat the several bouts arranged for the evening's sport took place.

Hon. P. D. Hastain made the announcements on behalf of the club, and first introduced Ed. Bauer and Ed. Gray, who sparred three rounds very cleverly. Gray was the smaller of the two, but he was inclined to be the aggressor notwithstanding, and it was given and taken in excellent style during the entire three rounds, with honors about evenly divided.

Hy Ripkin and Billy Drechsler followed with three equally as interesting rounds, the former having a shade the best of the exhibition.

The next bout was between George Baptiste, of St. Louis, and Eldred N. Harrison, of this city, who wrestled five minutes. Baptiste is one of the best known wrestlers in the country, but the five minutes rolled around without his getting any perceptible advantage over Harrison, or without anything like a fall in favor of either.

It was 9:15 o'clock when the contestants were introduced for the event of the evening. Gus Pehling officiated as referee, while Geo. Baptiste, of St. Louis, seconded McFadden, and Pat McGinley, of Chetopa, performed a like office for Asbell.

Asbell weighed 158 pounds, while McFadden was twenty pounds lighter. They advanced to the center of the mat and shook hands, and the difference in the size of the two men was freely commented upon, many of McFadden's friends expressing the fear that he had out-classed himself.

Both were splendid specimens of physical manhood, however, and as they moved noiselessly over the mat it was plainly to be seen that they were in excellent condition.

Up to this time there had been very little betting on the result, as local sports expressed a desire to see Asbell stripped before they placed their money, but a few dollars were wagered at the ring side, with McFadden a slight favorite.

When time was called both men proceeded cautiously. Only a few seconds had elapsed before Asbell became the aggressor, but he found it an exceedingly difficult matter to secure a hold on McFadden, who was even quicker than the proverbial cat. Finally, however, the Kansan went at his man viciously, and secured a hold that enabled him to pick McFadden up in his arms, but the hoped for fall failed to materialize, as McFadden came down with all fours upon the mat. This was done a second time, with the same result. Twice Asbell tripped McFadden, but failed to follow up his advantage, and the spectators began to realize that it was a case of science against strength. The men had now been wrestling about nine minutes, and McFadden had sized up his contestant to a point. An instant later Asbell seized hold of McFadden's leg, but to no purpose; and, quick as a flash, McFadden returned the compliment by forcing Asbell to the floor, face downward, after having entwined his legs around those of the Kansan. McFadden secured a neck lock or half-Nelson, and both of Asbell's shoulders were forced to the floor, tremendous applause following the effort. Time, 11 minutes.

After the usual intermission the men went at it again, and this time McFadden was the aggressor, while Asbell was content to be on the defensive. On several occasions the latter gave abundant evidence of his wonderful strength, but he was short on science, and as a result he lost the second fall at the end of fifteen minutes, McFadden having secured a full Nelson that enabled him to force Asbell's shoulders to the mat.

It was with difficulty that the Kansan arose, and for the next few minutes a nauseous feeling had possession of him. He was assisted to his chair by Prof. McFadden, and later it was discovered that his arm was quite severely sprained. The defeated man was complimented quite highly for his gameness, and when he returned to Hotel Sichter a number of persons called to offer their assistance in case that it was required, but it was not.

Mr. Asbell left for home on the early train this morning, considerably chagrined over his defeat, and emphatic in the declaration that he had never before met such a man as Prof. McFadden. As a country wrestler, Asbell ranks at; as a later day athlete, where science counts for more than strength, he can scarcely be said to be "in it," especially with a man like McFadden.
